

Logic Branch	IF (Condition / Trigger)	THEN (Action / Next Step)	Additional Context / Notes
Audience Engagement	IF the audience holds preemptive negative thoughts regarding your presentation (e.g., rumored price rises)...	THEN "call out the ghosts" early in the presentation.	This preempts negativity and builds immediate trust.
Learning Styles	IF your audience includes "Reflectors"...	THEN direct them to take a moment and write down their thoughts.	Pragmatists need facts, Theorists need input/understanding, Activists need to get hands-on.
Networking/Social	IF a client attempts to discuss detailed services/products while you are entertaining ("selling out of bounds")...	THEN politely steer the conversation to a future Monday call and focus on hospitality.	Prevents insincerity, loss of control over the environment, and buyer's remorse.

Networking/Social	IF you wish to join an established group of people at a networking event...	THEN check your body position and explicitly ask permission to join ("hey guys, would it be o-k...").	Mitigates basic 'tribal instinct' to exclude outsiders and invokes a compassionate response.
Networking/Social	IF you are naturally quiet, reserved, or feeling drained before a social event...	THEN take 5 minutes before the event to get into 'state' by imagining confident posture and voice tone.	Physicality dictates confidence; otherwise, quietness may be mistaken for snobbery.
Problem Solving	IF the team is prematurely assessing ideas and stalling out...	THEN the facilitator must strictly enforce the "no-assessment rule" (Step 5) and use mind mapping.	Premature assessment is the most frequent point of failure in divergent thinking/brainstorming.
Implementation	IF the team has agreed on an Action Plan but risks losing momentum back at the workplace...	THEN assign an "Enforcer".	They take psychological and operational ownership to monitor milestones.
