

Organisational Review

Getting clear on Who, What, Why...

Agenda:

- Review the Development Stages of the Organisation
- Review Internal Insights Data
- Review Your Understanding of People/Process Basics
- Define the Leadership Style Necessary for Success
- Define the Cultural Core Values
- Understanding our Habit Drivers
- Design the Organisational Hierarchy Chart
- Determine the Divisional KPI's
- Develop Cascaded Operational Objectives

Session Objective:

- To develop a plan focused on improving Internal Efficiencies;
- To develop a plan focused on improving Team Engagement;
- Both?

(Take 10-15 mins to allocate time to each agenda item above, based on what you want to 'walk away with' when finished)

Where are we headed?

What our team say about the organisation

Are we doing the basics (already) before seeking improvement?

How best to lead our team

What's MOST important to us?

Why we do the same old things, the same old way

Who reports to who?

How we measure divisional performance

Milestones, broken down to each team layer

“If Humility is Beneath You then
Leadership is Beyond You...”

Business Development Stages

Review (Complete if not already) the Business Development Stages table to record the 'scale dynamics' / 'business performance' required to achieve your personal income, lifestyle and daily activity goals.

(the dark bands will calculate automatically)

Team Insights

Review the Internal Team Insights page of the Insights Summary template.

(this information will need to have been gathered PRIOR to this meeting - of course.)

Checking Your People vs Process Understanding (so far)

Complete the People vs Process table to check your understanding (and progress) of Process/ Systems Development.

Define Necessary Leadership Style

Does your team leadership style reflect an orientation towards achieving a business advantage, or does it simply reflect your preferences for how you manipulate others to achieve something you want?

By way of an example...

Do you seek Innovation and Creativity as part of your business strategy?

(If so, you might build your team practices around 'open-air debate' or questioning decision logic, 'open plan' working environment, flexible work hours/ working from home, flat reporting structures, financial & non-financial incentives for new Ideas that prove commercial, relaxed dress code, celebrate individual performance etc...)

Or, Do you seek Quality, Efficiency, Consistency and Precision as part of your business strategy?

(If so, you might build your team practices around discipline and adherence to written 'Best Practice' rules and procedures, following determined communication and reporting lines, 'closed-door debate' or questioning of decision logic, fixed working hours and environment, uniform dress code, celebrate ONLY team performance, salary reflects authority position etc...)

Leadership

Complete the Leadership tables (1 & 2) to identify the areas where your leadership skills could be improved.

(remember to approach this task with an open heart & an open mind; you gain nothing by ignoring the lessons around you...)

Culture Defined:

The joke isn't funny
unless the group
says it is!

What IS a business culture?

It's a collection of 'permissions' (spoken and unspoken) about how a group behaves together.

What does a business culture DO?

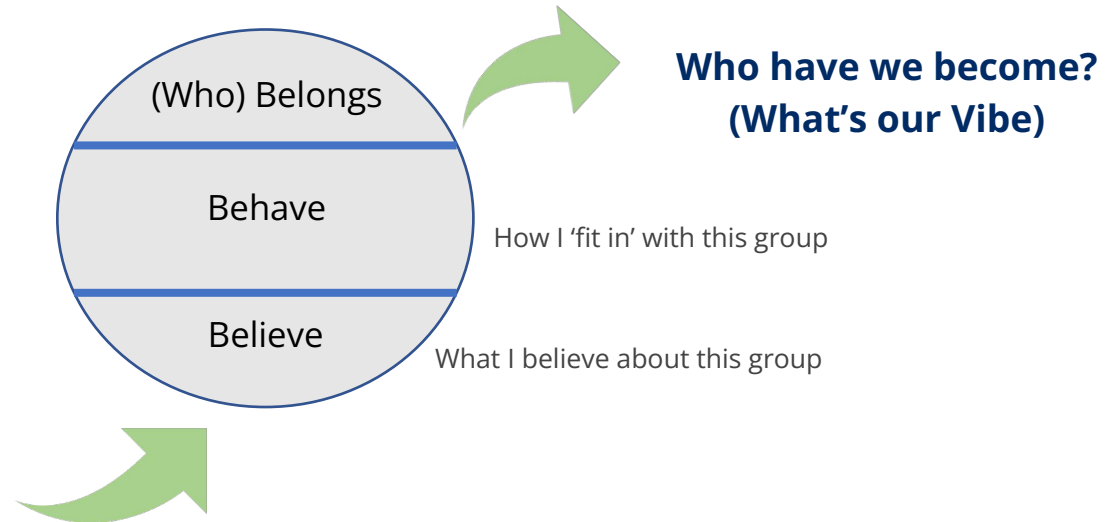

A Culture is a Social Contract that makes you feel Safe; where you WANT to belong.

How does a business culture FORM?

A culture is a reflection of leadership actions that are consistent (or otherwise) with a stated objective to which the group subscribes.

Defining Our Cultural Core Values (foundation)

1. Values: What's important to me.
2. Beliefs: What's true to me.
3. Behaviour: How I attempt to cope with (influence) the world around me.
4. Personality: My default coping mechanisms for dealing with (manipulating) others.
5. Values Hierarchy: Everything's important until it clashes with 'another'.

Cultural Hierarchy

“It’s often said that the British are too polite to be honest; the Germans too honest to be polite...”

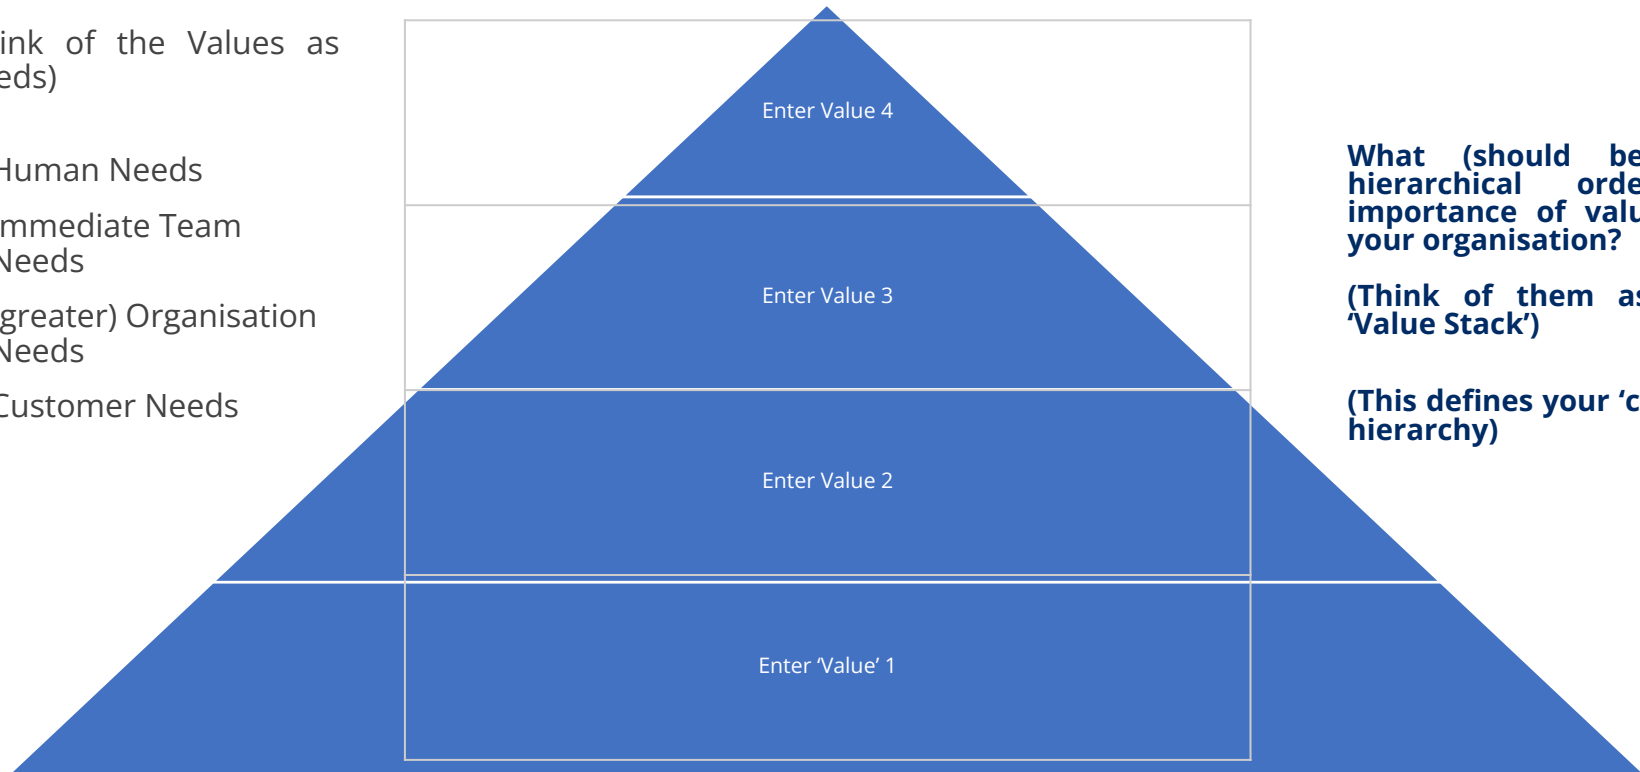

(Discuss the meaning and implications of this...)

Defining Our Cultural Core Values Hierarchy

(Dealing with values in conflict)

(Think of the Values as Needs)

- Human Needs
- Immediate Team Needs
- (greater) Organisation Needs
- Customer Needs

What (should be) the hierarchical order of importance of values for your organisation?

(Think of them as your 'Value Stack')

(This defines your 'conflict' hierarchy)

Cultural Values (Reflected/ Evidenced by Behaviour)

Value Segment	3 Key Behaviours
Human Values	1
Immediate Team Values	1
	2
Greater Organisation Values	1
Customer Values	1

What Are We Talking About?

“We can talk about ‘culture’ or ‘behavioural change’;
But what we’re dealing with is people and their habits...”

5 Steps to Building New Habits

Reason:	(Global perspective)
Trigger:	(Localised / 'Self Relevant' perspective)
Micro Habit:	(Small change consistent with success but not seen as too risky or painful)
Effective Practice:	(Repetition of micro-habit when associated to trigger environment)
Plan:	(Global perspective of on-going management 'in the real world')

Smoking Example

Reason:	Smoking is bad for health long term and expensive.
Trigger:	Out of breath in morning, Uncle diagnosed with lung cancer, New-born child.
Micro Habit:	Reduce from 2 packets per day to just 5 cigarettes per day.
Effective Practice:	Recognise habit triggers – 'Arriving at work, Finishing dinner' were habit triggers. In those instances in future, will drink glass of water and visualise it cleansing the lungs. Just like washing a car, don't want to 'get it dirty' straight after. Additionally, have 'PERMISSION' to smoke at 5 specific times per day and see this action as 'Success'.
Plan:	Will maintain this new habit for 6 months and then use same technique to give up completely once the toxicity has reduced in the body. Plan to run half marathon with friend in 12 mths time; training starts 6 mths out. Newborn child will be there to greet them at the finish line.

Understanding OUR original 'Trigger' that induced the original habit...

The same habit forming patterns were used to establish the original habit; albeit often subconsciously.

Thereafter, a series of 'environment triggers' would remind us to employ our habit, even though we consciously recognised the negative side effects.

The 'Global Plan' and 'Micro-habit' must recognise these 'environment triggers' as being INTERFERENCE TRIGGERS when pursuing a new habit and to be effective, must ALSO require us to understand the THINKING and ASSOCIATED FEELINGS that supported these previous triggers.

For example... How will you react to the 'Trigger' of Compliance Work deadlines running INTERFERENCE with your plan to deliver advisory services? (Especially in the vital stage of 'Positioning' your team for this work where often it's non-chargeable)

Communication & Reporting Channels

WHO is best to deal with who,
when dealing with WHAT?

The Origins of Planning & Why military based language is used in a business environment.

- Military Planning utilises 'the chain of command' to ensure consistent communication and 'discipline' to ensure consistent actions under pressure. (It's NOT there to support a glorified hierarchy or to encourage 'little people with big egos')
- The theatre of war is quite simply the most extreme example of the need to plan in order to achieve critical (life and death) outcomes and to account for the massive logistics and variables that is, war (battles).
- Military Planning is also the oldest form of (documented) detailed planning known.
