

BRANCH CHAIN LOGIC TABLE

Logic Branch	IF (Condition / Trigger)	THEN (Action / Next Step)	Additional Context / Notes
Clear Consequence Identified	IF the client clearly understands their problem, accepts the issue, and faces a clear consequence to gain or lose.	THEN position the advisor hierarchically, bypass heavy sales processes, and focus strictly on delivering accuracy.	This is the standard "Advice" engagement. The client is 90% through the buying process.
Client Overwhelm / Avoidance	IF the client receives too much information too quickly ("fed a baby steak") and begins to show signs of avoidance or overly assertive behavior.	THEN slow the pace, implement "The Reveal," and utilize a structured, visible 6-to-12-month plan to manage emotional pacing.	Crucial in "Facilitation." Clients cannot change behaviors if they feel threatened or overwhelmed.
Need for Behavioral Change	IF the client needs to change current behaviors but is emotionally attached to what they are already doing.	THEN remain professionally detached and locate a "Trigger Event" combining global realities with a localized, personal reference.	Unlocking emotional attachment requires dropping the old position before accepting the new one.

Ignorance / Knowledge Gap	IF the client does not know what they do not know and lacks the pieces to see the big picture.	THEN use "chunking" to deliver sequential comprehension and establish a feedback loop.	This is the "Education" engagement. The feedback loop must be used to find gaps, not cast judgment.
Specific Business Event Occurs	IF the client approaches the advisor regarding a specific event (e.g., a loan drawdown).	THEN utilize the "Look Both Ways" framework to schedule "Pre" (Cause) and "Post" (Effect) advisory services.	Examples include pre-revenue modeling and post-management KPI meetings to ensure better outcomes.
Team Role Assignment Needed	IF a firm is struggling to transition its clients to advisory and treating everyone the same.	THEN evaluate team members and categorize them into technical Advice, Facilitation, or Education roles based on their natural strengths.	Treating every client engagement as standard advice causes the advisory transition to fail.
